

When you apply to International Academic Research Institute of You are taking the first important step in a great adventure – the exploration of your future. The university you choose will be a part of you for the rest of your life, and its values, its commitment, its belief in your potential will shape the person you become.

Because we are looking for those students who will benefit the most from the academic challenge, the collegiate community and the focus on wholistic education that International Academic Research Institute provides, we look at each applicant as an individual. What you tell us here about your hopes and expectations for yourself, the commitments you have already made and the interests you want to pursue, will mean as much to us as your test scores and grades.

We look forward to your application.

INTERNATIONAL ACADEMIC RESEARCH INSTITUTE

Welcome

A message by International Academic Research Institute Board of Directors

International Academic Research Institute (IARI), a non-profit Christian Institute in Daegu, Korea, exists to equip committed Christians for leadership in the church, world missions, education, and society.

We are committed not only to education but education that is centered on Christ, His Great Commission, and the Word of God. Our focus is training those who have a desire to impact the world for Christ by grounding their spirits, hearts, and minds in the Bible.

God has given His children spiritual gifts and we want to see those gifts being developed and used for His glory. We are as interested in the use and practical application of knowledge as we are in the acquiring of knowledge. Our desire is to see our students allowing the Spirit of God to develop their character and spiritual disciplines so that their lives may be consistent with Godliness.

Our graduates serve in all walks of life. Therefore, we want to prepare them to live responsibly and successfully in whatever field God chooses to place them. We are thankful for all our alumni, especially those who are serving in the pastorate and on the mission field.

We believe that you would greatly benefit from the education and community at IARI.

Mission and Purpose

Following the reformed tradition, our programs include the spiritual formation of our students along with the specialized academic and practical training necessary to serve God faithfully. IARI aspires to:

1. Exhibit the academic excellence demanded of an institution of higher learning
2. Train students based on a central theological orientation – the Word of God
3. Nurture the interpersonal skills and relationships of our students necessary for success
4. Develop the confidence and abilities of our students to effectively use their skills in evangelism and discipleship
5. Provide educational services that will equip students to assist the worldwide church in its manifold ministries in local parishes, parachurch agencies, and educational institutions

Degree Programs / Tuition and Fees

In addition to degree programs in Theology, IARI offers programs in English, Business Administration, and Social Welfare. These non-theology degree programs train students for the mission field, as well as foreign countries, and can provide avenues to places in the world that do not welcome professionals in Theology.

The cost of books is not included in the tuition. Housing, transportation and other living expenses are also the responsibility of the student.
